

MICHELLE MILLS

Hello! My name is Michelle Mills. I moved to the Greenville area during the summer of 2019 to be closer to my aging parents. I am originally from the Columbia, SC area and have an Early Childhood Education degree from the University of South Carolina. Following graduation, a career opportunity took me down a different path from teaching. For as long as I can remember, I had a desire to help people and serve my community. I found and fulfilled that calling in Public Safety. I spent 19 years serving in just about every facet of Public Safety. I started off as a 911 dispatcher with Lexington County. Within a few years, I was cross-trained and completed my fire fighter and EMT-B certifications. I volunteered with Lexington County Fire Service for several years. On my days off from dispatch, I often got on an ambulance and responded to medical calls. I earned my law enforcement certification after I moved to the S.C. Criminal Justice Academy to be an instructor.

I started with John Knox in February 2020 as a substitute teacher. With my background in Public Safety and the concerns COVID-19 created, I moved into the position of Health and Safety Coordinator prior to the 2020-2021 school year. I look forward to getting to know all of you and your children this school year. Together we can provide the best environment in which our kids can learn and grow!
